Five promoted to Lieutenant in Wilmington

WILMINGTON — On Dec. 23, 2019, family, friends and coworkers gathered at the Public Safety Building in Wilmington to witness the promotions of five members to the rank of Lieutenant.

Lieutenant is the backbone of the command staff in any firehouse. They are the direct supervisors of the firefighters and their decisions early on in incidents have a direct impact on the positive outcomes of those situations.

The members being promoted represent over 80 years of fire experience. These new Lieutenants have proven themselves to be valuable assets to the Wilmington Fire Department.

These members were participated in an assessment of their fire knowledge, leadership skills, personnel conflict resolution, and public relations.

The following members were promoted: Lt. Ryan Quigley who will be taking over the duties of Fire Prevention Officer, Russ Stering, William J. Herrick, Jr., Eric Robbins who will all be assigned as Company Officers on the shifts, and David Woods who will be taking over the Operations Division.

These promotions represent the department additions to personnel that were approved at Town Meeting in May 2019.

“We wish these Lieutenants well in their new roles within the department.”

Pote helps hospital that helped him

By CASSIA BURNS
News Correspondent

(This article is based on information gathered by The Boston Pilot)

WILMINGTON — Thomas Pote, from Wilmington, a sixth grader at St. Joseph's School in Wakefield, recently gave back to the hospital that saved his life earlier this year.

Back on June 29, Pote was on Long Island for a lacrosse tournament when he slipped and hit his head at his hotel's pool. The hit caused a fracture that hit a major artery.

Pote was taken to Nassau University Medical Center by his mother, Paula Cushing-Pote, where he received a CAT scan revealing a four-centimeter brain bleed. Pote was transferred to Cohen Children's Medical Center, where he received life-saving surgery to stop the bleeding and remove the blood clot.

While recovering, volunteers from Child Life Therapy visited Pote and other patients, playing with the young patients, giving their parents a break if necessary, and providing toys, crafts, board games, and movies. Pote was provided Legos from the organization.

Additionally, Ronald McDonald House of Long Island provided Pote's mother and other family members with a place to stay until Pote was released from the hospital on July 4, and he returned home.

Grateful for the care they received by the organizations, Pote and his family decided to give back.

Superintendent proposes near $42M school budget

By LIZZY HILL
News Correspondent

WILMINGTON — On Wednesday, Dec. 18, the Wilmington School Committee welcomed Wilmington middle and high school students for school updates to begin their meeting.

WHS student Angelyn Ciampa updated the committee on band, strings, chorus, sports, model UN, DECA, and more. Middle school students Lyndsay Anthony and Abigail Driscoll updated them on recent field trips and school events, including a 3-on-3-basketball tournament and ugly sweater spirit day.

Next, the committee heard the concerns of two residents for the superintendent's budget affecting special education services and programs, since they're trialing public comments earlier in the biweekly meeting.

These comments led into the Superintendent's Report, where Dr. Brand discussed the Homework Procedure and an update in the search for a new Director of Athletics.

Dr. Brand talked about how the homework procedure is needed to “help serve our teaching staff well throughout the district and all of our buildings and at all different levels.”

He said that he has reached out to interested teachers to help create the procedure in its early stages. At this time, he hasn't looked for parent or School Committee member volunteers.

In looking for a new Director of Athletics, he's excited for resident participation in an on-line survey that would capture what kinds of qualities a candidate should have in addition to posting the job application.

The superintendent next presented the preliminary superintendent's budget for the committee and audience. He emphasized that the budget was created with the ideas and representation of their leadership team and principals. In forming the budget, they considered obligations and assessments, transportation, enrollment projections, and staff.

They prioritized essential services and programs, aiming to support students within the least restrictive environment with their growing social and emotional needs. They aimed to adhere to the strategic plan and the Walker Report recommendations.

Finally, Dr. Brand's budget included items necessary for subject-related curriculum and instruction, and technology for instruction and expansion.

Suggested by the budget are 11.5 new positions in the Wilmington school system. These positions include but aren't limited to board certified behavioral analyst, social worker, special education teacher, reading specialist, educational assistant, office of instructional technology technician, and clerical support student support services. The budget would include staff necessary to meet student-to-teacher ratios which differ between schools.

Abundant Life participates in an extraordinary on campus mission event

WILMINGTON — Abundant Life Christian School and Learning Center is truly blessed to have partnered with Feed The Need. Students and families were very busy on Wednesday, Dec. 11 packing 10,000 meals for hungry children in Haiti. In addition, this work event raised funds for the school and for the 8th grade class trip to our nation's capital.

The packing began at 8 a.m. and was completed by 1 p.m. at the school. Working together, Abundant Life students, staff and parents packed meals that provide vegetables, protein, vitamins and rice for children in need, with each packet holding six servings of food. 10,000 meals were packed, boxed, and prepared for shipping.

Students as young as three decorated the boxes and a banner for the children in Haiti. Older students unloaded the ingredients, set up the packing party area, packed meals, weighed the meals, boxed and sealed the meals and packed the pallet for shipping. All had fun working for the Lord in completing this amazing mission.

Abundant Life would like to thank all of the parents, volunteers and the Abundant Life Church of Wilmington for making this a successful event.

In addition, thank you to the following corporate sponsors: Silver Level Corporate Sponsors Code G Automation and Jamie-son Management Company, both of Woburn and Couto Management Group, LLC of Stoneham; Bronze Level Corporate Sponsors Howard Asphalt Paving of North Reading; JM Electrical Company, Inc. of Lynnfield; Modular Cleaning Concepts LLC of Marlborough; Spence and Mathews Insurance of Berwick, ME.

In addition, thank you to Pinnacle Private Wealth, Brad Hutchinson Real Estate, Academy of Traditional Karate, As Good As It Gets Cafe, Knights of Columbus Fr. Francis Coppens Council #4336, Kevin Scott Plumbing and Heating, Elite Free Style Karate and Raintree Cleaners & Tailors.

Fundraising efforts for Feed the Need continue at Abundant Life. The community is invited to partner with the school to provide meals for children in Haiti, and to help Abundant Life continue providing high-quality, affordable Christian education to area families.

Wilmington Police warn of break-ins

WILMINGTON — Area residents have been put on alert after a rash of day-time break-ins have occurred in Wilmington not far from Interstate 93. The breaks have occurred on the well-known

Lowell Street (Rt. 129) leading to I-93, as well as nearby Strout Avenue. Homeowners in the area have been taken by surprise and the owners of the targeted homes were still making a search of their homes after the incidents.

The Strout Avenue, dead-end street, is especially confusing to police and homeowners as it is normally a very quiet suburban street without incidents.

Wilmington Police Chief Joseph Desmond was addressing the media on a recent day and reached out for help from anyone who might have seen anything.

History:

A long musical tradition at Wilmington High School

By LARZ F. NEILSON

He could have a student think he was excellent while he was, well, improving, said one parent, speaking of Dominic DiGrazia.

DiGrazia came to the Wilmington schools in 1949, became the band director in 1953 and music director five years later. He was joined in 1955 by Lorraine Kalil, a graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music. They were the backbone of a great music program for some 35-40 years.

A youngster in the Wilmington music program was indeed fortunate, for there is more to education than the "three R's." Music is an important factor in the development of the mind.

"If you were to visit one of Mr. D's classes," read an article in the Town Crier in 1965, "you'd find a broad smile that marks the only personal triumph in which he's truly interested. Perhaps it is that a student has just experienced the elation of playing a whole song through for the first time."

DiGrazia would work with younger kids on instrumentals, and before long, they'd be in the band. There was the Wilmington High School Band, or as Capt. Larz Neilson called it, the Wonderful High School Band. Then DiGrazia formed the intermediate schools band, and then an elementary band.

DiGrazia would be hard to miss as he proudly marched alongside his students in a parade, always with a smile and a wave. Miss Kalil preferred to be low-key, but she always hit a high note. He did the bands; she was more involved with vocals and teaching theory. But they worked quite well together.

December is always a musical month, a special time in the school system. While the parents' attention is generally focused on their one favorite performer, the programs are also a shining moment for the teachers. Wilmington has been quite fortunate to have had several great music teachers over the years.

Dom DiGrazia began his musical career in Boston at age seven, under the tutelage of his father, Michael DiGrazia. By the time he was 12, he was playing the violin professionally. In his teens, he was teaching violin and musicology. In 1939, he played a violin solo in an orchestra at the New York World's Fair.

World War II changed the location of his career, but he managed to remain in music, first as director of music at Camp Croft in South Carolina, then at two other locations. That changed when the 82nd Airborne Division was sent to active combat duty in Africa, Sicily and Italy.

He was the composer of hundreds of compositions. The Boston Police Association sought him out to compose a score for "Code of Honor." It became the opening selection for the Boston Pops Orchestra in its Memorial Day concert in 1965 and was recorded by RCA.

"There was something rather elegant and refined about him that made it seem like he was from an earlier time," former student Harry Landers wrote.

After his retirement, several students in the band visited his home in Lexington shortly before Christmas, 1984. He was in bed with some health problems, but his wife, who was in on the plot, opened his bedroom window just as the band came marching down the street, playing Christmas carols.

Lorraine Kalil came to Wilmington in 1955 and quickly took the music classes to a higher level. A teacher of piano, organ, theory, harmony and vocal choral technique, she is also an accomplished producer and director.

She and DiGrazia wrote, produced and directed a musical, Pushcarts, which they presented in Barrows Auditorium at Wilmington High School in 1965 and again in 1978. She wrote the lyrics, DiGrazia the score. The production involved over 100 people, both teachers and elementary students.

'She Came to Slay: The Life and Times of Harriet Tubman' by Erica Dunbar

By EILEEN MACDOUGALL

I loved Dunbar's prior book, "Never Caught: The Washingtons' Relentless Pursuit of Their Runaway Slave," Ona Judge, the story of the enslaved woman who was on the run from a vengeful Martha Washington and her hired detectives for most of her life, which ended near Portsmouth, NH.

This next one, telling the life of another strong African American woman and hero, seems aimed at middle school readers, but is greatly enjoyable for adults as well and would be well-paired with the recent film Harriet.

A family tree and other illustrated factoids enhance the basic story of Tubman's difficult and amazing life.

Five Wilmington nonprofits surprised with $6,000 through Cummings program

WILMINGTON — Five Wilmington nonprofits received a little something extra this holiday season: a collective $6,000 in funding from Cummings Properties' Cummings Community Giving program. This annual philanthropic initiative invites employees to select a local charity to receive a $1,000 donation in their honor.

In total, the Woburn-based commercial real estate firm donated $553,000 to hundreds of local nonprofit organizations. The Wilmington organizations selected this year were: Abundant Life Christian School, We're One Wilmington, Wilmington Community Fund, Wilmington Family Counseling Service, and Wilmington Substance Abuse Coalition.

Cummings employees directed funds to 365 nonprofits in 102 local cities and towns. Now in its eighth year, the program is designed to give back in the areas where Cummings Properties team members live and work.

"One meaningful aspect of the program is that it is a broad company-wide initiative yet also deeply personal," said Dennis Clarke, Cummings Properties chairman and CEO. "All colleagues — whether they were hired yesterday or 40 years ago — have the chance to make an individual decision that helps a local cause that matters greatly to each of them."

Cummings Properties senior purchasing agent Ray Garrett, a Wilmington resident, directed his $1,000 donation to We're One Wilmington (WOW), which supports local individuals and families undergoing financial, medical, or emotional difficulties during times of hardship.

"I was interested in giving back locally," said Garrett. "WOW is a great organization that helps so many people in the Wilmington community."

Each eligible organization can receive up to $5,000 per program cycle, allowing multiple staff members to choose the same nonprofit. This year, 15 recipients received the maximum $5,000 donation.

Cummings Community Giving is open to employees of Cummings Properties, as well as its affiliated retirement communities, New Horizons at Choate in Woburn and New Horizons at Marlborough. Colleagues with at least 10 years of seniority are invited to choose two nonprofits to

By PAUL ANDREWS

This column will focus on several topics that came to mind watching events and people over the course of the holiday season with the positive and negative feelings that you may or may not share, but let me wish you a very Merry Christmas and Happy 2020.

For many folks this is a sad time of the year because of family members who have passed away and they need that special call from friends or relatives to make them feel they are not alone. I don't think one understands this feeling unless you have gone through it and they know what I mean.

Meanwhile, my major focus on this section of the column is on why the attitude and happenings of this time of the year cannot go on all year.

For example, we see people all over our Town Crier universe holding doors for men and women to pass through, cars stopping to let a person cross the street, buying a coffee or tea for all in the office, reaching out to shake hands, saying Happy Holidays or Merry Christmas (or whatever) to all they meet, stepping in front of traffic to let an elder person cross the street with the famous "thank you wave" plus so many other holiday customs.

Think how this world would be, if this atmosphere went on all year.

Governor's critics

This sounds like a carry-over from the last topic but I am getting tired of stories blaming Governor Charles Baker or any governor for that matter for every state crisis being mentioned in Massachusetts especially the MBTA and the registry. What bothers me is that the critics act like these problems "just happened" under the current governor when in reality they have been with us for many governors before Baker as some of them are best like turning around a huge tourist boat in Boston Harbor with no power.

State problems are incredibly complicated with the MBTA huge, considering the age of rails and switches, insufficient staffing, lack of adequate funding and the growing attitude that many people have of "we need it done right away and no time to wait."

This is a huge problem and was there for other Democratic and Republican governors with some criticism but not at the current level which in my mind is not justified.

Relative to the issue of the Registry of Motor Vehicles, the same feelings pertain in my mind, as this is another "huge fix" but quite honestly, I see that happening. The Triple A offices are incredible in their work, but yes, you need to wait too long because of the lack of staffing; however, the issues around the Registry of Motor Vehicles are complex and it will take the efforts of several governors in a row (either party) to make a real fix of this agency as well.

JUST A NOTE: I can't thank those of you enough for your many notes, comments and e-mails on the columns this year and want to include some Morning Pulse comments that many of you seem to enjoy reading.

Again, we need to think positive at all costs but here are some of this week's Pulse statements: In a recent survey half of American workers haven't gotten a pay boost this year; Older workers ride out the computer age; Apple, Google and Amazon want one language for smart home devices; Out of pocket costs for Medicare recipients will rise in the New Year; Amazon sellers are the latest casualty from the company's spat with FedEx; Vote expected in Congress to protect coal miner's pensions; Real-estate stocks chalk up best return in five years; Venture capital investment in biomedical sector to hit record this year; Negative interest rates are destroying our pensions; Carbon dioxide pollution hits record high as planet warms; Older workers are being pushed out of their jobs, and it's a problem; Most Americans think they won't need social security receive $1,000 each. Selected nonprofits must meet a few eligibility requirements and be based in and serve Middlesex, Essex, or Suffolk County, or the city or town where the colleague lives.

The program was expanded in recent years to include longtime clients, Cummings Foundation volunteers, and other friends of the Cummings organization. These participants made their selections earlier in the year.

More information, including the complete 2019 Cummings Community Giving recipient list, is available at www.cummings.com/ccg.

Cummings Properties manages a portfolio of 10 million square feet of commercial space in 11 suburban communities north and west of Boston, including numerous buildings on Concord Street and Fordham Road in Wilmington. Most of these properties are owned by Cummings Foundation, with 100 percent of all rental profits supporting hundreds of local charities. The Cummings organization awards $25 million annually to greater Boston nonprofits, and it has awarded more than $260 million to date. More information is available at www.cummings.com.

Animal abuse case goes to pre-trial hearing

By ROSALYN IMPINK
News Correspondent

LOWELL — On Thursday, Dec. 19 the criminal phase of the Oliveira animal cruelty case continued at Lowell District Court with a pre-trial hearing. Slaughterhouse owner Dinis Oliveira of 199 Marston St. and his employee, Francisco Menjivar of El Salvador, both appeared before a judge at the courthouse in downtown Lowell.

Oliveira and Menjivar are alleged to have performed an act of animal cruelty by improperly and inhumanely killing a cow on Nov. 1, 2019 at Oliveira's slaughterhouse operation in Tewksbury.

The assistant district attorney representing the Commonwealth explained that components of discovery are not ready for presentation to the court at this time. The judge set a compliance and election hearing for Feb. 5, 2020. At the hearing, the judge will determine discovery compliance, and then order appropriate sanctions for noncompliance.

Additionally, Oliveira and his lawyers will announce how he will choose to plead, and he will decide whether or not to waive his right to a trial by jury; the court will also schedule a trial date. The court will provide Spanish-language translation for Menjivar and Portuguese-language translation for Oliveira.

Both Oliveira and Menjivar are charged with animal cruelty in violation of Massachusetts General Laws Chapter 272 Section 77, because they "did overdrive, overload, overwork, torture, torment, deprive of necessary sustenance, cruelly beat, mutilate or kill an animal, or did cause or procure such; and did use in a cruel or inhuman manner in a race, game, or contest, or in training therefor, as lure or bait a

▲ Lazarus House - South Union Thrift Store grand reopening RAFFLE PRIZES FOR GUEST SHOPPERS

'Shopping with Dignity' the goal as Lazarus House Thrift Store reopens

LAWRENCE — Dozens waited patiently in line Saturday morning to be among the first to shop at the newly-renovated Lazarus House St. Frances St. Clare Thrift Store, designed not only to serve those in South Lawrence, but to make an investment in the community.

"The goal is to serve the community better in the end," said Lazarus House Executive Director Jeff Hassel. "It was a bit run-down and we decided to put time, effort and some money into it to make it more of a center for the community that they would like to come to."

After a month's make-over, dozens of well-organized racks of clothing, gently-used toys, and even a visit from Santa greeted those crowding the store for last-minute holiday shopping.

While the prices on the items may be nominal, Lazarus House believes it does not mean the shopping experience and environment should be different than that found at stores serving people of greater means.

"The point is to give good care, a good welcome and a shopping experience that is full of dignity to all of our guests," said Hassel.

That philosophy is at the core of the Lazarus House mission of treating those it serves with a dignity they may struggle to find elsewhere in their lives, and is now reflected in the right, updated surroundings at the South Union Street thrift store.

"With a new fresh take on thrift store shopping, we hope to provide more opportunities for guests to get needed items at a low cost, attract more donations, and bring more business to the community," said J.C. McGuire, Coordinator of Thrift Stores for Lazarus House Ministries.

Everything in the thrift store is donated by individuals, businesses, churches, synagogues, schools, civic groups and other generous groups. Items which meet a simple criteria: "Would I give this to my best friend?" are gratefully accepted.

Since opening its doors as an emergency homeless shelter in 1983, Lazarus House has been breaking the cycle of poverty in the Merrimack Valley. The thrift store clothing programs assists families by stretching their dollars so they can afford rent, heat and utilities.

ABOUT

LAZARUS HOUSE:

Lazarus House helps courageous women, men, and children living in poverty restore their dignity and self-respect. They offer life-saving basic services to people in crisis and diverse opportunities for guests to disrupt the cycle of poverty.

They support people beyond this emergency response through transitional housing, education and work preparation to build more stable lives. Founded in 1983 as a five-bed shelter, Lazarus House today operates out of eight buildings in Lawrence.

They provide:

Nourishment, through served meals and groceries.

Stability, through emergency shelter and transitional housing.

Comfort, through advocacy and case management and highly affordable clothing, housewares, and furniture at its three thrift store locations. When guests face a dire need, they provide vouchers for free items, nearly 400 per year. They also distribute holiday gifts and food boxes for 700+ families through our Project Bethlehem and Giving Tree programs.

Dignity, through preparation to earn a living wage. Their ESOL and Adult Basic Education, specialized vocational training in sewing and culinary arts (with paid internships), and comprehensive, individualized job placement assistance helps 65 or more heads-of-household exit poverty per year.

Lazarus House serves at least 25,000 households annually.

"We had realized we were very, very lucky that he was alive. He shouldn't have survived what he'd gone through," Cushing-Pote said in an interview with The Boston Pilot. "We felt that we need to give back for everything the hospital has done for us."

They went about gathering monetary and toy donations first through Pote's school. Each month, St. Josephs does a "casual for a cause" day where students can wear clothes other than their uniforms for the day if they donate to a designated charity.

For the first "casual for a cause" day back in September, students paid $2 each and wore the color green in honor of traumatic brain injuries. They raised $305, as well as an additional $100 donation from the school's gym teacher.

The family sought toy and book donations through the Wilmington and Wakefield community Facebook pages. They received donations from both communities, as well as a donation from Northeastern Fence and Supply Corporation in Saugus that brought the total monetary donation just past $1,000.

On Nov. 25, the family brought the donations back to Nassau University Medical Center and Cohen Children's Medical Center, and they visited with the nurses and doctors that had cared for Pote during his stay.

Full budget ready for School Com. on Jan. 22; hearing Feb.

The total budget came to around $41.9 million. Dr. Brand mentioned that he would discuss the budget with the Town Manager and present the full budget for the School Committee on Jan. 22. There will be a budget hearing meeting held on Feb. 12, 2020.

After the reading of a few more revised School Committee policies, committee member M.J. Byrnes plugged the MASC School Committee orientation class being held at Everett High School on Jan. 11.

The next School Committee meeting will be held on Jan. 8, after winter vacation from Dec. 23 - Jan. 1, 2020.

Robert Elliot 'Bob' Feyler

Served in the United States Air Force

Robert Elliott "Bob" Feyler, age 74, formerly a long-time resident of Wilmington, passed away peacefully on Dec. 21, 2019 at the Brigham and Women's Hospital in Boston.

Bob was born on Feb. 18, 1945; he was the dear son of the late Kenneth and Alice (Cook) Feyler.

Bob was raised and educated in Revere and a graduate of Revere High School. Bob loved his upbringing in Revere and enjoyed his first job working at the Revere Beach amusement park. Bob grew up with a love of cars, boats and being by the ocean.

In October of 1966 he joined the United States Air Force where he proudly served the country. Bob completed several training courses and was stationed at Lackland and Shepard Air Force Bases in Texas. He was released from active duty and returned home to his family.

Bob married the "love of his life" Diana Paradis and the couple settled in Wilmington. Bob was dedicated to spending his time with his family which included regular visits to their second home in Maine; a home built by Bob. While there he enjoyed snowmobiling, maintaining his property with his tractors and making sure that his children and grandchildren always had a great time.

Bob worked hard for his family; he started as an installer for New England Telephone which later became AT&T and finally Verizon.

Bob's work ethic, great personality and vast knowledge led him up through the ranks in the company. When he retired from the phone company, he took a position at Textron in Wilmington where he made many good friends.

Bob's other passion was spending summers on his boat in Essex, where he enjoyed fishing and exploring Crane Beach. He was also a "jack of all trades;" Bob especially enjoyed carpentry.

Later in life, he found great joy in his grandchildren whom he adored. On a regular basis, he would visit his children and grandchildren for dinner which was always followed by working on a project around their house.

Bob was truly the most kind, caring, thoughtful and patient man; thoughts that were resonated by everyone who met him. Bob's legacy will be the influence he had on all who knew him and that was to be kind, giving and respectful to others. He was certainly "one of a kind" and a true gentleman; Bob will forever be loved and missed by many.

Bob was the beloved husband of Diana M. (Paradis) Feyler, devoted father of David Feyler and his wife Kerry of Wilmington, Susan Sugrue and her husband Jim of Keller, TX, Kerri Staffier and her husband Mark of Middleton, and the late Daniel Elliott Feyler.

Dear brother of Kenneth Feyler and his wife Dorothy of Peabody. Bob was also the "special uncle" to Ellen Gill, Peter Feyler as well as many Paradis Family nieces and nephews.

At Bob's request, his Funeral Services will be private.

In lieu of flowers, donations in Bob's memory may be made to the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute, P. O. box 849168, Boston, MA 02284.

Neil enlisted in the United States Navy in 1952 during the Korean War and served on the auxiliary oiler, U.S.S. Allagash AO-97, supplying fuel and ammunition to ships on the US eastern seaboard, in the West Indies, and the Mediterranean. He was honorably discharged in 1956.

Neil was a devoted husband and caregiver to his wife, who had a chronic illness, prior to her passing away in 2008. He was also a dedicated, hard-working, family man. in need; lending a helping hand, providing his limited free time to youth organizations, donating supplies, supporting the church and numerous charities in any way he could.

In his early retirement years, Neil and his wife happily spent most days caring for their young grandchildren and continued to do so after school as they grew older. Neil loved the time spent with all of his grandchildren, always greeting them with a big smile and open arms and usually sending them home with candy or some sort of treat.

Neil enjoyed relaxing with family and friends. He loved trying new restaurants with his wife Joan, solving crossword puzzles, working on jigsaw puzzles, playing cards, building model ships and watching Westerns and 007 movies. He had a sweet tooth second to none and loved animals.

Donate your money, goods or time all year long

By HEATHER BURNS
News Correspondent

Just because the gifts under the tree have been opened, and the stockings have all been emptied, it doesn't mean the season for giving is over.

With the rush of the holidays many of us with good intentions to give to those in need, either never had the time or just could not afford to give a little extra right before Christmas.

No need for a guilt trip, because the truth be told, most charitable organizations need help all year long, not just at Christmas time.

As we wrap up the remainder of this holiday season and begin to usher in the New Year, consider a donation to one of the many local organizations in need.

The Tewksbury Community Food Pantry is always in need of canned foods, flour, sugar, condiments, peanut butter, and sugar free items. Also in need are household items like dish and laundry soap, toiletry items, and paper products.

They also accept cash donations and gift cards to grocery stores. You can easily donate online or drop off at any Tewksbury church, the Tewksbury Public Library, or call 978-858-2273 to arrange a drop off of items.

During the Christmas season a Salvation Army Bell Ringer can be found in front of every grocery store and major retailer, collecting money donations in their red kettles. But the Salvation Army has needs to fill all year long.

The Salvation Army and other organizations run charitable thrift stores and are in need of clothing, housewares, and furniture that is in good condition, and many organizations will pick items up from your home.

You and your family may have received new books, DVDs or CDs for Christmas. Why not take the opportunity to clear out your shelves of any old books, movies, and music you don't use anymore and donate them to the Tewksbury Public Library.

The Merrimack Valley Habitat for Humanity has a thrift store or building project called ReStore, located in North Billerica. They are in need of appliances, architectural items, flooring, hardware, windows, doors, cabinets, countertops, electrical items, plumbing fixtures, lumber and lawn and garden items. All items must be in good or new condition. To donate, call 978-25-9975 or visit www.mvrestore.org.

If the cost of Christmas has put a dent in your budget, there are many organizations that request only your time in volunteer work.

The Wish Project, located in Chelmsford, is a resource for furniture, household goods and baby items that serves families in need in the Merrimack Valley. The Wish Project is in need of volunteers to work in both their warehouse and from home. For more information call 866-947-4360 or visit them on Facebook @thewishproject.

The Tewksbury Public Library is also in need of volunteers to help with the day to day cleaning, shelving and shifting of collection in the library. To find out more about volunteer positions and to apply, visit www.tewksburypl.org/get-involved/pages/volunteer.

The House of Hope, located in Lowell, offers life changing programs to hundreds of families and provides long term solutions for homeless families in the Greater Lowell area. They are always in need of donations of food, cleaning items, and children's items, but volunteers are always needed and welcomed.

Volunteers are needed to perform routine maintenance like painting walls and yard work, and to prepare and serve nutritious meals. To volunteer or donate items call 978-458-2870 or visit www.houseofhopelowell.org.

Budget Buddies, located in Chelmsford, is an organization that offers financial coaching for low income women. To volunteer to be a "coach," you do not need a financial background to work one on one with a "buddy," but you do need to attend training that is provided by Budget Buddies.

Besides coaches, they are also in need of volunteers to do research, community outreach, fundraising, childcare, and marketing. Call 978-703-0820 for more information about volunteering for Budget Buddies.

Strongwater Farms, located in Tewksbury, offers a therapeutic equestrian program for individuals with physical, cognitive, and emotional challenges. The are always in need of volunteers to assist in lessons, horsecare, facility maintenance, and office work. To find out more about volunteer opportunities, visit them at www.strongwaterfarm.org.

The Tewksbury Senior Center has a variety of volunteer opportunities. There is always a need for volunteers to work at the Help Desk, gift shop, consignment shop, data entry, or for friendly visiting. Stop in at the Senior Center located at 175 Chandler St. for an application to volunteer.

If you don't have the time or schedule flexibility to consistently do volunteer work, you can still give back to the community by participating in town clean up day or recycling days.

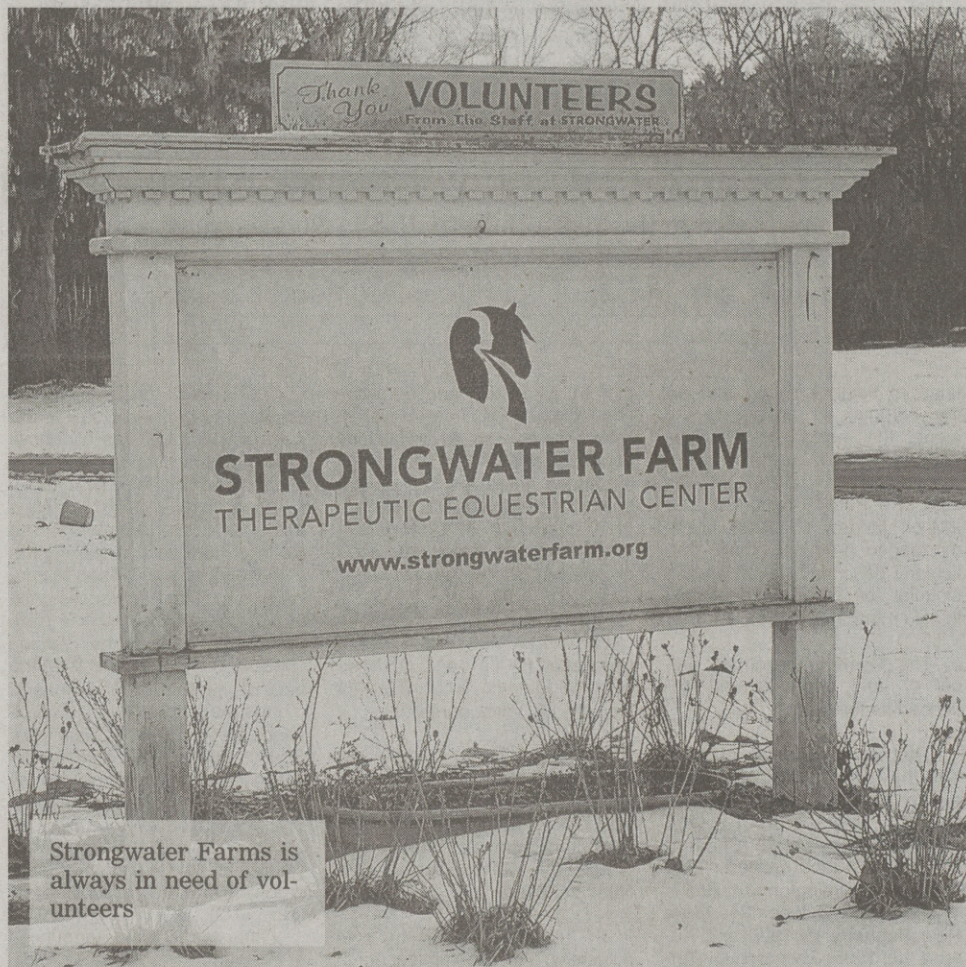

A list of useful items to donate is also available on the Town of Tewksbury website, www.tewksbury-ma.gov.

As we get ready to enter 2020, keep the season of giving alive in your spirit and mind. The end of the year is a great time to get organized by cleaning out your closets and donating useful items to those in need. If your post-holiday budget allows, give what you can to your favorite local charity, keeping in mind that your time may just be your most valuable commodity to organizations in need.

The Tewksbury Public Library needs donations of books, DVDs and CDs, as well as volunteer time.

Flying next year? Check out the REAL ID

By PAIGE IMPINK
News Correspondent
paige@yourtowncrier.com

The deadline for getting the new REAL ID is Oct. 1, 2020. What is a REAL ID and why will you need one? As a result of the attacks on the United States on Sept. 11, 2001, the Department of Homeland Security, through the recommendation of the 9/11 Commission, has implemented a program to standardize the issuance of a driver's license, a piece of identification that is one of the core ways to verify one's identity.

The REAL ID Act was passed in 2005. Gaining compliance by all 50 states took considerable time, resulting in the eventual deadline of October 2020. The impact is significant for all persons who fly on domestic airlines.

While the REAL ID program is voluntary, citizens will not be permitted to fly within the United States without a REAL ID. In fact, citizens will not pass TSA security without one. The only way around this is to use a government issued passport along with your driver's license, on any domestic flight.

The goal is to create a minimum standard for security surrounding documents used for certain official purposes, according to the Department of Homeland Security. This includes accessing federal facilities, boarding federally regulated aircraft, and entering nuclear power plants.

On Oct. 1, 2020, TSA agents may only accept REAL IDs or acceptable state alternatives, known as Enhanced Driver's Licenses (EDL) as issued by certain states such as Vermont and Wisconsin.

Massachusetts residents should visit their local registry office by Oct. 1, 2020 to receive a REAL ID license, especially if they do not have a passport and wish to fly somewhere in the United States.

AAA offices in Massachusetts are also offering this service. There are specific documents required to obtain a REAL ID for adults 18 and over. Documents required include proof of US citizenship, proof of residency and social security card.

Only originals will be accepted as proof, no photocopies or laminated versions. Additionally, proof of name change must also be produced, in the form of municipal marriage certificate, divorce decree or court issued name change document.

The RMV has created an online form to start the transaction in advance of visiting the registry to speed the process along at mass.gov/ID. It may take some time to collect this information, so plan ahead. Lines are reported to be long already to renew licenses and obtain a REAL ID.

It is important to note that a REAL ID is not mandatory, and that citizens may board domestic flights with their regular driver's license so long as they have a passport in hand. Yes, you read that correctly; to fly domestically in the United States, you will need your passport if you do not have a REAL ID. Your driver's license alone will not suffice.

However, the REAL ID is NOT a substitute for a passport for cruises or international travel. Other forms of identification that are acceptable without the REAL ID include a US Department of Defense ID, federally recognized tribal IDs, transportation worker credentials and U.S. Merchant Marine credentials.

For more information, and to determine if the REAL ID is right for you, visit www.mass.gov and search for REAL ID.

Malden Catholic High School invests in newly expanded arts program

MALDEN — Over the years, Malden Catholic has been known for academic rigor and scholarly pursuits, but with the addition of the Girls Division in 2018, the school now boasts of a newly expanded, multi-faceted arts program.

"Nurturing and balancing both right and left brain is critical to promoting the whole person," stated Lisa Cenca, Principal of the Girls Division. "Creative arts help kids think more critically and clearly," she added.

According to a study published by the American Psychological Association, high school students who take music courses score significantly better on exams in certain subject including math and science, than their nonmusical peers. Over 112,000 student records were studied and those who participated in music, who had higher achievement in music, and who were highly engaged in music had higher exam scores across all subjects.

As the foundation of the expanded program, nine new courses including choir, advanced choir, inroduction to dance, jazz, contemporary dance, drama, musical theater, speech and debate I and II have all been added to the curriculum. Fine arts courses also balance out the academic structure with drawing, digital art and photography.

In a time when many institutions have cut funding for the arts, Malden Catholic has made a significant investment and targeted skilled teachers to support the expansion. Experienced educators were added to the team. Ellen and Erin Keith who have successfully run Spotlight Productions and are leading the MC drama classes, Stacie Ferreira, an accomplished dancer and instructor for 20 years, is running the dance program, Deirdre Foley and Devan Pecoraro, both experienced high school debaters, are working with students for speech and debate and Lora Tamagini, worked with Catholic and public high school choirs for 25 years and is pursuing her EdD in Educational Leadership and Curriculum.

In addition, Brian

O'Donnell, an accomplished artist himself, teaches drawing, digital art and photography.

In celebration of program, Malden Catholic hosted a Winter Arts Night on Wednesday, Dec. 11, providing an opportunity for the community to enjoy the students' hard work and tremendous talent. Over 250 people flowed throughout the building, moving between the cafeteria, auditorium and the Hub and enjoyed 13 different rotating performances. The MC Choir sang a holiday repertoire in the cafeteria, the MC rock band as well as the dance company performed in the Hub while drama and contemporary dance shined on the auditorium stage.

The school also displayed the students' fine art drawings, paintings and sculptures throughout the halls.

The gift that keeps on giving: Holiday e-commerce recycling 101

Massachusetts residents can expect a blizzard of boxes this holiday season with the U.S. Postal Service estimating it will deliver a mind-boggling 910 million packages between Thanksgiving and Christmas this year.

There can be plenty of things to stress about during the holiday season, but considering what to do with all the holiday packages arriving at your home doesn't have to be one of them. Most of the packaging from your online shopping can be reused or recycled, and Recycle Smart MA makes it easy to figure out what goes where.

Old cardboard boxes can be recycled up to seven times and are used to create a wide range of products like cereal boxes, shoe boxes, new cardboard boxes or even furniture. According to the American Forest and Paper Association, cardboard boxes are the most-recycled packaging material, with nearly half of the material used to make new boxes coming from recycled paper. So that box you recycled last year may actually be helping to deliver another present to your house this year.

To ensure your cardboard boxes make it to next year's Cyber Monday — simply remove any plastic air pillows, packing peanuts or Styrofoam inserts before placing them in your recycling bin. It's also important to keep your recycling bin dry and free of food and liquids which can attract pests, impact the recyclability of the paper and cardboard, and make a mess for the recycling facility workers who sort the material. Here's a pro tip — flatten cardboard boxes so you can close the lid on your recycling bin or wait to put them out if the weather looks bad.

Another great option for dealing with the avalanche of boxes is to reuse them.

Cardboard boxes are strong and durable, they can be reused for online shopping returns, storage, regifting or arts and crafts.

What about all the other packaging materials you receive during the holiday shopping season? Let's break it down! Here is what packaging is recyclable (and what isn't) from your online shopping orders:

Cardboard box — flatten, and recycle

Paper filler — recycle
Plastic air pillows & bubble wrap — these don't belong in your recycling bin but you can save and reuse or bundle with other plastic bags and wrap and bring them to a collection bin at your local supermarket

Plastic shipping bag — plastic bags of any kind do not belong in your recycling bin, but you can remove the labels and return them with your other plastic bags to the collection bin at your local supermarket or place them in the trash

Bubble lined paper mailers — mailers made with both paper and plastic should be placed in the trash if you can't reuse them.

Packaging peanuts — these do not belong in your recycling bin but you can keep and reuse the peanuts or take them to a pack-and-ship store (FedEx, UPS, Kinkos, etc.)

Still have recycling questions? Check out the Recyclopeda at RecycleSmartMA.org to search for hundreds of items (from paper bags to pizza boxes) to find out what to do with them.

Partner Spotlight:
Worcester Garden Club members tour the local recycling facility.

Is recycling even worth it? What is happening with all of these single use plastics? With all the recent negative headlines like the "The Dark Side of Recycling" and "The Great Recycling Con," the Worcester Garden Club wanted to know what they could do to help. Inspired by the Garden Club of America's (GCA) ConWatch Spring 2018 publication focused on plastics and the GCA's position paper on Waste Management — the group reached out to the Recycle Smart team at MassDEP and asked us to come give a talk on recycling contamination and plastic reduction during their Conservation Roundtable in November.

Since then they have gone above and beyond to spread the word that Yes! Recycling is still worth it! We just need to make sure we are Recycling Smart. Surveying the 12 towns where garden club members live, the Worcester Garden Club members wanted to learn where their recyclables and trash go. They have toured area recycling facilities, met with Worcester's Solid Waste Coordinator, supported Worcester's Solid Waste 5-year Master Plan, and advocated for the municipal and state-wide plastic bag bans.

They are the first garden club to join the Recycle Smart Partner program and have created an excellent website featuring Recycle Smart: worcestergardenclub.org/recycling-smart. Way to go, Worcester Garden Club! Thanks for being such a 'binspiration'!

Wilmington Town Crier's 26th annual

Female Athlete of the Year: Emily Hill

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.com

WILMINGTON - A funny thing happens when you ask coaches about Emily Hill. Hill, a 2019 Wilmington High graduate and former star player for the Wildcats Girls Tennis team who has since moved on to stardom at the college level at Johnson & Wales University, is obviously a coach's favorite.

And why wouldn't she be? She is a supremely talented player who makes any coach's job easier the moment she steps on the court. She is a coach's dream in that regard. She is so outstanding in fact, that after an amazing season at both the high school and college level, she has been selected as the Wilmington Town Crier's Female Athlete of the Year for 2019.

But the funny thing that happens when you talk to coaches about Hill has nothing to do with her on court tennis exploits. The funny thing that happens is that when you ask them about Hill, the first thing they want to talk about is not her serve, or her backhand or her footwork. It is about what kind of person she is, and how much the like being around Emily the person, not Emily the tennis player.

Wilmington High coach Matt Hackett, who coached Hill for four years with the Wildcats and saw her help the program go from a one win team the year before she arrived to an 11-win tournament team in each of the last two seasons, was effusive in his praise of Hill.

"First of all, I have to thank her for what she did for our program," Hackett said. "And more importantly, I got to know her very well. I enjoy tennis and I enjoy winning, but it is about the relationships that you build with people and she was just such a great person to be around.

I got to know her in the classroom and on the tennis court and I am so grateful to have the opportunity to know her."

Hill's college coach at Johnson & Wales Devin Kitterick, the 2019 GNAC Coach of the Year, has not known Hill for nearly as long as Hackett, but he has known her long enough to know how lucky he is to have her as part of the Johnson & Wales program.

"Emily is one awesome kid," Kitterick said. "She is quietly brilliant and she has a quick wit. She is just this calm, cool kid, but she just seems to be older and wiser than she is. I have known her for two years and I don't think I have ever seen her have a bad day. She is always upbeat. That's what allows her to do so well."

TURNING THINGS AROUND

And then of course there is the matter of just what a great tennis player she is. There is simply no denying that. Hill played as the Wildcats No. 1 singles player all four years of her high school career, compiling 37 wins in her career and helping to turn the program around from four wins in her freshman year, to a school record 12 in her sophomore year and then 11 in each of the past two seasons, qualifying for the state tournament each of the last three seasons.

"I was just so proud of how the everyone on the team came together, especially during the harder times and the harder matches," Hill said. "We all got along great and had a lot of fun together. It is no fun unless everyone is getting along and this team was able to do that."

In reality, the Wildcats did much more than just get along. They made some history as well. Prior to Hill's arrival, the Girls Tennis team had made only two tournament appearances in school history not qualified for the state tournament since 2009, but behind Hill as their No. 1 player, they qualified in 2017, and also picked up the first ever tournament win in school history when they beat North Andover in the first round.

After qualifying in each of the past two seasons, it is the first time in school history that the girls team has qualified three years in a row.

"It has been awesome to be part of and it definitely has not been just me, it was the entire team," Hill said. "It has been great to start to get tennis noticed in this town and have people start paying attention to us and realize that we are a team full of really good tennis players, and hopefully and helps get other girls and boys too, out there hitting and starting to play."

Hill was an outstanding player throughout her career at Wilmington High, but this past season she took her game to an entirely new level, going 11-5 on the season, including an 8-2 mark in the Middlesex League, winning 122 games and 22 sets overall, most of them coming against a brutal lineup of number one players in the Middlesex League.

"Experience definitely helped me," Hill said. "My freshman year I was just kind of getting my feet wet in a tough league and every year I was able to learn a little bit more. I don't really pay attention to numbers and wins, as much as I am concerned with how I play. I could win in straight sets, but if I felt I did not play well enough I would be disappointed."

It is that never satisfied attitude that has helped make Hill the player she is today and it is an attitude that Hackett is glad that she maintained throughout her four-year career.

"She just has this incredible desire to get better," Hackett said. "And she is willing to put in the work to get better. She is continuously working out and trying to improve different aspects of her game, or reading about the game. She has improved every year as a player and improved every year in terms wins and all along she was a tremendous role model. Her mentality and passion has rubbed off on others."

"Her impact on the program has been amazing. What she has meant to the program was far more than I every could have expected."

Hill has continued to put the Wildcats on the map in more ways than one. Her most lasting impact of course has been in her helping to lead the Wildcats in their Middlesex League matches and leading them to three straight tournament berths. But this past season, for the second time in three years, Hill also qualified for the MIAA Individual Tournament and this time around Hill picked up a win in the tournament.

After earning the six seed in the tournament and earning a first round bye, both incredible marks of recognition in their own right, Hill went on to defeat her opponent from Dover Sherborn by a score of 6-0, 6-2 before finally being eliminated in the next round.

"That was just a great experience because I felt like I was representing our team and our town and what we have become," Hill said. "I felt really proud to be there, especially with how high they ranked me, it made me very proud to represent Wilmington. Getting to the third round was amazing. Never in a million years did I think I would go so far."

QUITE THE ROOKIE SEASON

Most often, when an athlete makes the transition from high school to college, there is a learning curve, and the athlete will struggle in their first year or so adjusting to the higher level of play. After all, the theory goes, everyone who has been recruited to play at the college level was the best or one of the best players on their team, so the competition should be tougher and success should be harder to come by.

That was not the case for Hill however, who took the Great Northeast Athletic Conference (GNAC) by storm. Hill was a six-time GNAC

Emily Hill has been chosen as the Wilmington Town Crier's Female Athlete of the Year. Hill played tennis year round, and helped the high school team to the state tournament and also led the Johnson & Wales Women's team to its best season to date, where she was named the GNAC Rookie of the Year. Wildcats knock off Winchester, 2-1, in biggest regular season win in many years

Beating the Defending Division 1 State Champs: Check!

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

jamiepote@hotmail.com
WOBURN - Over the years, there's been some really good wins for the Wilmington High School Boys Hockey team, but on Saturday night, the Wildcats won arguably its biggest regular season game since the state championship years back in 2012 and '13.

A year ago, Wilmington was defeated by Winchester, 4-0, at home, in a game that featured a melee and a handful of ejections from both teams. A month or so later after that loss, the 'Cats were ousted in the first round of the Division 2 North State tournament, while, Winchester went on to win the Division 1 state title with a 3-1 victory over Duxbury.

Wilmington and Winchester met for the first time since that unfortunate incident, and although there were two major penalties called in the game, and nine penalties called in all, the Wildcats emerged with a thrilling 2-1 victory over the reigning champions. Senior goalie Anthony Cuozzo stole the show in this one, playing fantastic, turning away 41-of-42 shots, while getting goals from Jared Venezia and Riley Fitzgerald.

The win was also No. 350 in the incredible career of head coach Steve Scanlon, whose team is now 2-1-0 on the season with wins over Belmont and Winchester and a 1-0 loss to Reading.

"We have had three crossover games (with Liberty School teams) and there were six points available and we took four of them so if someone said that to you before the season started, you would have been ecstatic," said Scanlon.

Since entering the Middlesex League in the winter of 2011-'12, counting the 2-1 mark this season, the Wildcats have gone 19-28-4 against the six Liberty School teams - Woburn, Reading, Arlington, Lexington, Belmont and Winchester.

Wilmington is now 3-6 against the Sachems, the other two wins coming in the state championship seasons with 2-1 and 1-0 scores. The previous two games, the 'Cats were outscored 11-2.

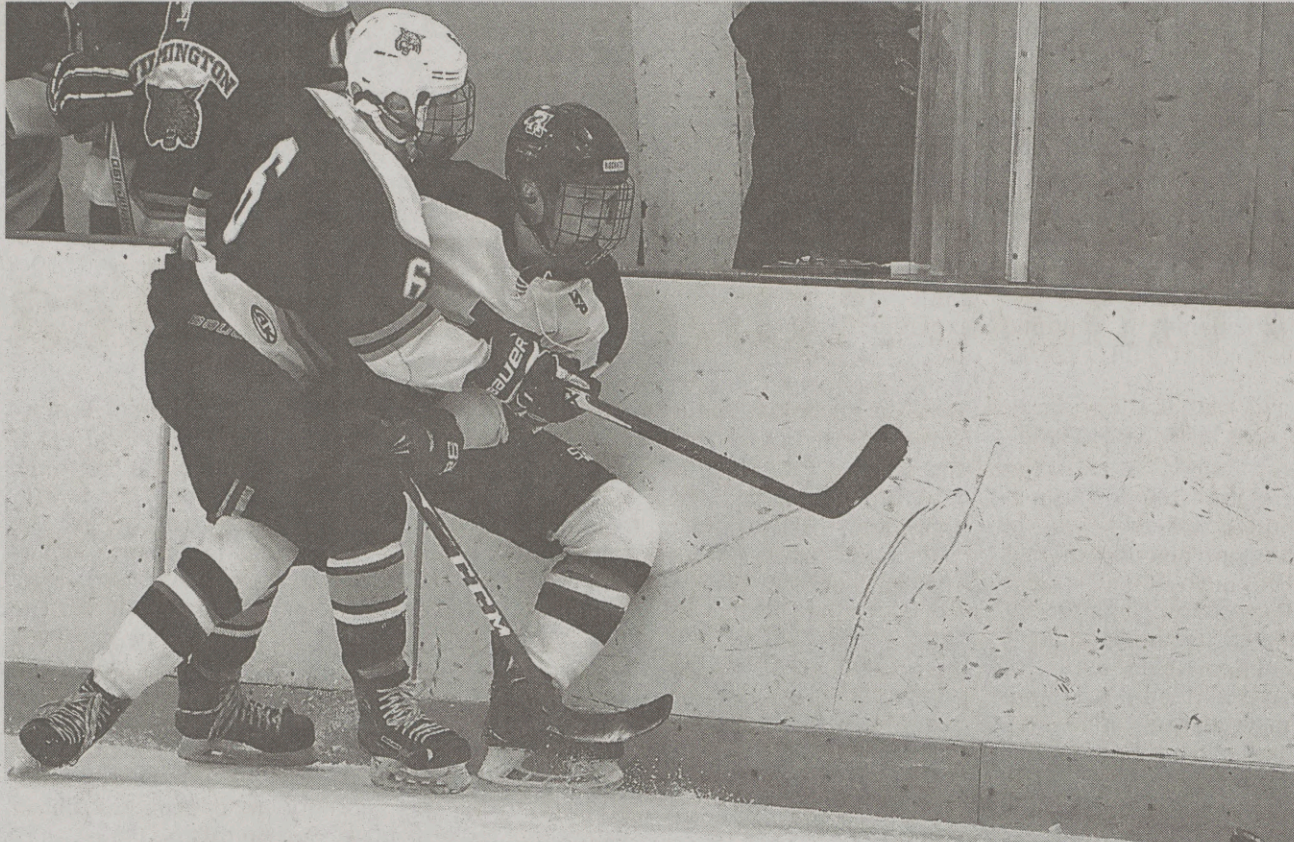

"We haven't beaten this team in I don't know how long," said Scanlon. "It's been a while. It's a big win, but we're giving up too many shots so we have to clean some stuff up. The season is so young so we have time to do it."

The game was scoreless after the first period with Winchester holding a 15-1 advantage in shots. The 'Cats killed off a five-minute major just 3:40 into the game with Cuozzo making six stops during that timeframe. Then with 1:46 left, the 'Cats were called for a penalty and 33 seconds later for another, giving Winchester a 5-on-3 for the rest of the period and for 14 seconds of the second period but the 'Cats held them off.

The 'Cats played much better in the second period - even before Winchester was called for several penalties. Junior defenseman Matt Pendenza sent a long pass behind the Winchester defensemen to Robert Courtney, who came in on the breakaway but was stuffed with a low stick save.

With 8:56 left in the period, the 'Cats were on a power play and the best bid came on a 1-time slap shot from Zach Kincaid, which was stopped by Robert DiVincenzo, arguably the best goalie in the league entering this season.

About 90 seconds later, the Sachems were called for another penalty, giving Wilmington a 5-on-3 advantage and the 'Cats came through as Venezia scored on a 1-time slap shot from the top of the slot with assists going to Christian Robarge and Pendenza.

Then with 3:29 left, the 'Cats scored on another power play. Working the puck around in the Sachems end, Joe Hill found Fitzgerald in front, and he quickly put a shot past DiVincenzo for what proved to be the game winner.

"Today was a big win (but at the same time) we had a lot of sloppy play out there, especially the puck handling and then the penalties," said Scanlon. "That was kind of the story of the game. Our first period was mired in killing penalties. Special teams were big in this game, just ours did a little bit better of a job. We got the two power play goals and both were nice goals. We did enough to win, but we have to play better."

Winchester scored on a power play goal 4:27 into the third period to cut the lead in half at 2-1. The Sachem were called for two penalties midway through the period but the 'Cats couldn't convert. Then with under five minutes to go, Robarge deflected a pass and pushed the puck ahead and skated down the right wing side on a breakaway but was stuffed.

A minute later, Cuozzo made a terrific sprawling save going to his left and recovered the loose puck which slipped behind him.

Then with 2:20 left in the game, the 'Cats were called for a penalty and a minute into it the Sachems pulled their goalie for the 6-on-4 advantage. The foursome of cousins Robarge and Kincaid, along with Pendenza and James Kourkoutas along with Cuozzo killed off the penalty and any last second goal to help the 'Cats prevail with the win.

Last Wednesday, Wilmington was defeated by Reading 1-0 with Cuozzo again making 41 saves.

The 'Cats are back in action on Thursday and Saturday of this week competing in the annual Christmas Tournament. On Thursday, Wilmington will face Exeter (1-1), New Hampshire for a 5:00 pm game and then will get either the winner or loser of the North Andover/Newton North game on Saturday, 5 pm is the consolation round game and 7pm is the championship game.

Thus far, Exeter has defeated Bishop Guertin, 3-2, but was blanked by Concord, NH, 7-0.

SCANLON'S 350TH

The win marked No. 350 in the career of Scanlon, which started in the winter of 1991-'92.

"I have been fortunate to have good hard working players and great assistant coaches. For me, I'm most proud of the chance to coach all this time at my alma mater," he said.

It was also win No. 550 in his career as coach of soccer and ice hockey at Wilmington. Scanlon has a career hockey record of 350-206-64, a career soccer record at WHS of 200-118-60, meaning two more games and he will have coached 1,000 games.

His career soccer record, counting stops at Methuen and Westford Academy is 329-169-90, meaning his overall coaching record in both sports is 679-375-154, which includes three state championship titles.

Senior has back-to-back 40-plus save games

Cuozzo shining bright inbetween the posts

WOBURN - In their last two games, the Wilmington High School boys' hockey team has combined to give up between 75-82 (depending whose stats you take) shots, yet came out of those two games giving up just two goals and splitting the contests with a 1-0 loss to Reading and a 2-1 win over the defending Division 1 state champions of Winchester.

That's a lot of shots and for goalie Anthony Cuozzo, that's a lot of biscuits thrown at him. But the senior has been up to the task, playing extremely well inbetween the pipes, including 41 stops in Saturday's win over the Sachems.

"Anthony continues to play very well," said head coach Steve Scanlon. "He kept us right in there and he cleaned up his rebounds (after struggling with that in the season opening win over Belmont). He knew (about the rebounds) and I think it was just rust (from the off-season) and it was the first game of the season. He knew right after that game that pucks were getting off of him."

"In the Reading game, he was much better with it and kept everything real tight. There wasn't a lot of second whacks (at the puck) and if there were, he was right there. He's big and he's playing real tight to the puck so you're not getting the second one him if you are five inches away from him."

This is the third year that Cuozzo has been with the program, but he has yet to play in a full season. As a sophomore, he gave the team a lift playing in a handful of games during the regular season. Then last year he was tabbed the starting goalie to start the season. He played in 11 games and the team was 4-7-0 at the time. He helped the 'Cats beat Chelmsford to win the annual Haverhill Christmas Tournament and he also had strong performances in a pair of 2-1 losses to Burlington and Stoneham.

But the night before the team's 12th game, he was injured - off the ice, well, no, not really.

"I slipped on ice going to a team dinner actually, so that was pretty ironic," he said. "It's good to be back and help the team. I was pretty nervous that we wouldn't be where we are supposed to be, but so far we have all done good and living up to the expectations."

The expectations for the 'Cats this season are certainly higher than normal, considering the team returns a handful of veteran players, have several transfers, and a goalie, who certainly can be a difference maker - especially with the way he has played against Winchester.

"We haven't beaten them in a while so it means a lot just to get the win outright," he said. "This is pretty big, especially to beat them after what happened last year."

After Wilmington defeated Belmont in the season opener, Scanlon said that Cuozzo played well, but gave up an unusual amount of rebounds. Since then, that hasn't been the case.

"Last game (against Reading) I tried to control (my rebounds) a little bit more," he said. "I feel like I was able to take a swing at that (and be better with it). I'm just trying to grasp everything in tight and if not, then deflect shots up over the net and into the glass to get whistles."

In the first period against Winchester, the Sachems had a 15-1 shot advantage in the first period but Cuozzo turned them all away keeping the game scoreless.

"I just tried to keep the team up with their spirits and they kept going and never lost hope and we carried that into the second and third periods," he said.

Wilmington scored two second period goals to go up 2-0, but Winchester was able to get one back early in the third period on a tipped shot from the slot area, coming on a power play.

The score remained 2-1 and things got pretty dicey down the stretch, when the Sachems were on a 6-on-4 advantage in the final 70 seconds or so, but Cuozzo and company were up to the challenge.

"They like to get (their offense) set up at the points so they can get some shots down low and some tips," said Cuozzo. "We just had some struggles getting coverage at the top to take away those shots. They had some pretty big guys in front so they were able to pop (just) one in."

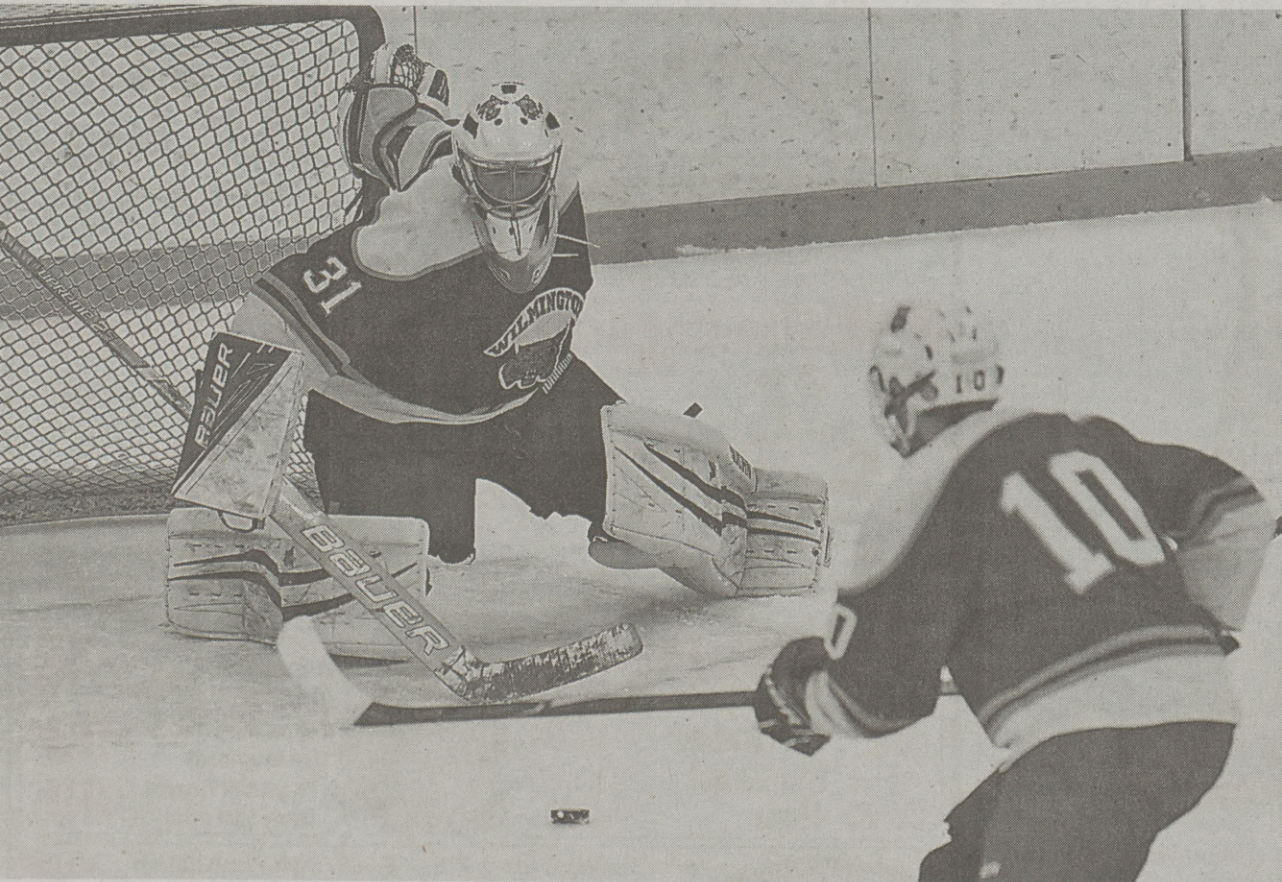

Cuozzo comes from a family of goalies and ice hockey players. His mother Gina (Martiniello) was an outstanding athlete at Wilmington High and is a member of the Athletic Hall of Fame. She excelled at field hockey and ice hockey at Providence College, while, Anthony's sister Rose was also an outstanding field hockey goalie at WHS and now playing at UMass-Lowell.

Anthony also has several uncles who played at WHS, including Mario, who previously coached Andover to the Division 1 State semi-final in the 2006-'07 season.

Anthony said that he loves the game of hockey, enjoys being the goalie and that commitment certainly reached a new level from this past off-season.

"I lost a few pounds since last year, around fifty," he said. "I ran everyday, almost everyday, around five days a week. I ran probably two miles a day and drank a lot of water and that helped me a lot."

And it helped Wilmington beat the defending Division 1 state champions for the first time in seven years.

Wilmington High senior goalie Anthony Cuozzo makes one of his 41 saves from last Wednesday's 1-0 loss to Reading. He followed that up with another 41 saves in the team's 2-1 win over the defending Division 1 state champions of Winchester on Saturday. (photo by JoeBrownphotos.com).

'Cats fall in their third straight one-goal game

By DAN ZIMMERMAN

WILMINGTON — In the midst of a losing streak, it's the small victories that stoke the flames of ambition and spur the participants to continue the quest for better results.

The Wilmington High School girl's hockey team has now lost three straight, dropping back-to-back 1-0 decisions to Belmont and Reading at the outset and most recently, suffering a 2-1 defeat to Winchester to remain winless.

And yet, as the players emerged from the locker room following Saturday's contest at Ristuccia Arena, many wore smiles that are often seen on faces following a win. The Wildcats finally snapped a scoring drought that has persisted since the opener.

Midway through the second period, with the game still scoreless, junior forward Ida Bishop picked up a loose puck in the neutral zone, lugged it over the line along the right wing, and made a goal-scorer's move.

"There was a Winchester player following me so I decided not to go towards the middle," explained Bishop when asked to describe the developing play that put the Wildcats on the scoreboard for the first time this season. "She might have been able to take the puck away. There was no pass lane available in front so I circled the net and faced their goalie."

Bishop went on to say she was looking to send a feed to a linemate but finding none, jetted toward the high slot and on the fly, released a hard wrister that beat Winchester netminder Amy Scali five-hole. "It was awesome," Bishop said.

"We look at this season as a series of building blocks," said coach John Lapiana. "In each practice, we seek methods to add another Lego to the stack. Our defense is established so now we have to do the same thing in the offensive zone and focus on moving pucks and bodies to the net."

Earlier in the week, the Wildcats faced a top-notch Reading club that had dealt them a lopsided 7-1 defeat last year. Despite the 1-0 loss, Lapiana was pleased with the noteworthy turnaround.

"Reading is a deep team, disciplined with faster and stronger skaters than we have," he said. "They had their share of opportunities. But our girls worked their tails off for a full 45-minutes. We limited clean shots to the net and made sure we always had back-up in defensive zone coverage."

Wilmington didn't yield a goal to the Rockets until deep in the third period which is a testament to the stifling defense and of course, goaltender Melanie Hayden who stopped 27-shots in the Winchester match. It goes without saying that Wilmington's Antonia Brunetto tries to defend Belmont's Cece Cacere as she lets off a shot during the team's season opener held two weeks ago. (photo by Bob DeChiara).

Hayden is the primary reason the Wildcats have never been out of range in the three games played thus far.

Lapiana, outnumbered two players to one by Winchester, has never denied he lacks the bench reserves of some of his opponents and fatigue can play a role, particularly late in the game.

"If you notice, everybody is playing," he said. "Coming into the season, the girls weren't as conditioned as we would have hoped. And the shorter bench is one of the challenges we have to overcome. But these girls play with a lot of heart and that helps offset fatigue."

Trailing 1-0 into the middle frame, Winchester got a little help from the men in striped shirts. Of the four infractions handed down in the second, three were bestowed on Wildcat skaters. The Sachems took full advantage of the man advantage, scoring with 7:55 left. Annie Ettenhofer, anchored in the circle to Hayden's right, redirected a feed from Brooke Ross at the point. The puck struck the goalie's pads and deflected into the net. Niki Micciche also earned a helper on the game-tying goal.

Wilmington had a few good chances to recapture the lead. Gina Bertolami, for instance, broke in alone on the right wing, faked the defenseman, and whistled a waist-high shot. But Scali was equal to the task.

In the first minute of the third period, Wilmington suffered a brief but costly defensive lapse. Caught in the neutral zone on transition, the Wildcats' defensive tandem were left in the wake of Irene Mandile and Micciche. The speedy pair broke in two-on-none and there was little Hayden could do. She dropped and got a piece of the shot but the puck's momentum carried it over the goal line for what proved to be the game-winner.

There was ample time remaining for Wilmington to engineer a comeback, including a pair of power plays, but the girls were unable to maintain a presence in the offensive zone.

"Part of my job is to get as much out of these girls as possible and motivate them to improve," said Lapiana who, after the Christmas break, will host Bishop Fenwick next Saturday. "It helps that I'm working with a bunch of kids who have great character. They're a fabulous group of girls."

Both Hoop teams looking to pick up their first victory

WAKEFIELD - Facing a barrage of three-pointers by Wakefield High, the Wilmington High Boys Basketball team gave a great effort, but never really had chance last Friday night, suffering a 79-44 loss on the road to their Middlesex League rivals, dropping to 0-3 on the young season.

Wakefield hit 12 three-pointers on the night, although it seemed like they must have hit 20 of them, as they connected on long range jump shots all night long, keeping the Wildcats off balance, and making it very difficult for the inexperienced squad to stay in the game, despite getting an outstanding performance from sophomore guard Tommy Mallinson, who had 26 points on the night.

Wilmington coach Dennis Ingram, who had not been pleased with his team's effort in their season opening loss to Burlington, thought the Wildcats improved in that area in this one, but that they were simply over-matched against a very good Wakefield team.

"I think the effort is better. I think the kids care. I think to be as honest as possible, they are just a lot better than us right now. There is just a gap in the talent," Ingram said. "We don't have a lot of guys who play year round and we are running into a lot of schools who have kids who have multiple guys or a whole team that is focused on basketball, and that's kind of what we are seeing right now."

It was apparent right from the start just how talented Wakefield was as they jumped out to an 8-0 lead just three minutes into the game before the first of Mallinson's six three pointers on the night got the Wildcats on the board. Wakefield led 21-8 at the end of the first quarter and were well on their way.

The Warriors really put the game away early in the second quarter, going on a 12-1 run to start the quarter, thanks mainly to the hot shooting efforts of junior guard Brett Okundaye, who had 16 points in the game for the Warriors. But he was not alone in his hot shooting as the Warriors put the Wildcats in a 35-13 hole at the half.

"We tried as hard as we could to slow them down," Ingram said. "That number two (Okundaye) is a special sort of athlete," Ingram said. "I don't know if this sounds right, but we felt like when we had them in the half court and were limiting them to one shot, we really slowed them down and were competitive. The problem was, that didn't happen in every possession of the first half. When they can get out and they can run on us, they really put some separation between us."

Wakefield did not relent in the third quarter, making sure they had the game secured by knocking down four three pointers during the frame to extend their lead to 58-31 heading into the fourth quarter. Mallinson, Evan Witalicz and Andrew Munsie did their best to keep the Wildcats in the game, but Wakefield proved to just be too strong for Wilmington.

One bright spot on the night for the Wildcats, along with the improved effort, was the play of Mallinson, who was outstanding all night long in his 26-point performance, knocking down six three pointers as he tried to keep the Wildcats in the game.

"Tommy's a really good player and we are really lucky to have him," Ingram said. "We talk a lot about guys playing year round basketball and he is one of those guys. He is a gym rat. He is in the gym all year long working on his game and trying to get better and it is nice to see that paying off for him. Every game his confidence gets a little bit higher and the ceiling is high for him this season."

The Wildcats were back in action on Monday night at home against Triton, with results of that game unavailable as of press time they will resume their season after the new year when they host Middlesex League rival Stoneham on Friday, January 3rd, with tipoff set for 5:15 pm.

GIRLS HOOP

With any luck, last Friday night's game against Wakefield will be one the Wilmington High Girls Basketball team looks back on as a turning point in what still shapes up to be a very promising season for the Wildcats after what has been a slow start.

Despite getting a monster effort from star junior forward Kylie DuCharme, who had 17 points and 21 rebounds on the night, the Wildcats, who were missing star senior guard Jenna Tavanese due to injury, fell to the Warriors by a score of 47-35 to drop their record on the season to 0-3.

Much like their season opener the previous Friday against Burlington, it was a night where the shots simply weren't falling for most of the Wildcats, who found themselves facing a 29-15 halftime deficit and saw the deficit grow to as many as 17 points in the second half before eventually closing to within 12 down the stretch.

The Wildcats actually played pretty well out of the gate in this one, trailing only 12-11 at the end of one quarter. DuCharme got the Wildcats off to a good start with a high-light reel play midway through the quarter, grabbing a rebound and then going coast to coast for a lay in that gave Wilmington a 6-3 lead in the early going.

Wilmington led 11-9 until the closing seconds of the quarter, until Wakefield's Hannah Hill drained a three pointer at the buzzer to give the Warriors a 12-11 lead. Unfortunately for the Wildcats it was a portent of things to come.

Wakefield took advantage of numerous Wilmington turnovers as well as some cold shooting in the second quarter to pull away. Wakefield outscored the Wildcats 17-4 in the quarter, including a 17-1 run to start the quarter. Wilmington did not hit a single field goal in the quarter, with four free throws accounting for all of their points.

The Wildcats improved somewhat in the third quarter, scoring 11 points in the quarter, but Wakefield was rolling by that point and were able to extend their lead to as many as 17 points at 40-23 on a Sophie Brown basket with 2:00 left in the quarter. Along with DuCharme, who seemed to grab every available rebound, the Wildcats also got strong efforts in the quarter from Jenna Sweeney, Olivia Spizuooco and Alyssa Morrison.

Above, Kevin Palmerino runs a play for the WHS Boys Basketball team during an earlier season game against Burlington and below, Alyssa Morrison is pretty focused in playing defense on the same night against the Red Devils.

Wilmington's improved play continued into the fourth quarter, as they kept the deficit in the 12-14 point range, but it was not enough to make a comeback and the Wildcats suffered their third defeat in as many games.

While the Wildcats were off their game on Friday night, they had played very well in their previous game last Wednesday night at home against a powerful Belmont team before losing a 58-54 double overtime thriller. DuCharme once again led the way for the Wildcats with 22 points and 24 rebounds, while senior captain Olivia Almeida had a fine game of her own with 11 points and junior Kiara Nadeau had eight points.

The Wildcats will be back in action next Monday, December 30th, when they host Tantasqua Regional High School in a non-league matinee at 1:00 pm, followed by another home game on Friday, January 3rd against Middlesex League rival Stoneham, with tipoff set for 7:00 pm.

Wildcats finish 13th as a team at own SOI Wrestling Tournament

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.com

WILMINGTON - This season is going to be a work in progress in many ways for the Wilmington High Wrestling team, at least in the early going as the Wildcats and their largely inexperienced roster looks to keep improving as the season goes on. With that in mind, the Wildcats performance at Saturday's Sons of Italy Tournament at the Shriner's Auditorium was just what coach Joel McKenna was looking for. The Wildcats did not have any wrestlers place in the top four of their weight class but they had several wrestlers win at least two matches on the day, and as a team they finished 13th out of 20 teams.

"We tell them all the time, that this is probably the toughest early season tournament that there is in the entire state," McKenna said. "For a tournament that happens in the first couple of weeks of the season, this is a deep tournament with talent from the Middlesex League, the MVC and even the Bay State League with Brookline and Dedham.

"It is an impressive group of teams with good wrestling histories, so to go toe to toe with them today and have some success, that is what we are looking for. We are looking to keep building, and that is all we can really ask of these guys right now."

Junior Joe Ganley was one of those who stood out the most for the Wildcats going 3-2 on the day at 126 pounds. Ganley got his day off to a good start with an 1801 technical fall win over Steve Fogarty of Melrose, before losing in the quarterfinals to Ty Stewart of Dracut in the quarterfinals. Ganley then moved on to the consolation bracket where he pinned Jack Donovan of Tewksbury in 52 seconds and Youscarl Nina of Whittier in 1:40 before being eliminated by Shawsheen's Frank Foti in the consolation semifinals.

"Joe wrestled well on the day," McKenna said. "He went 3-2, so to do that at this tournament is pretty impressive considering the competition, so we were happy with that."

Fellow junior Stephen Smolinsky also went 3-2 on the day at 152 pounds. Like Ganley, he won his first match of the day, pinning Tewksbury's Richard Lavargna in a time of 3:31 in the first round. After losing in the quarterfinals to Luke Lamele of Whittier Tech, Smolinsky went on to beat Zack Bambury by pin in a time of 1:00 and earn a tough 9-7 decision over Robert Dawes of Dedham.

Smolinsky's run also came to an end in the consolation semis when he dropped a 6-1 decision to Matt Shaw of Central Catholic.

"Stephen lost in a tight match, and that was a kid he had lost to last Saturday, but he did much better against him this time around, so that was a nice turnaround for him," McKenna said.

Senior Jacob Bernard (120) and junior Shane Penney (132) each went 2-2 on the day, with Bernard picking up a first round win over Joey Testa of Winchester and later getting a win over Johnny Trzcienski of Dracut, while Penney won with a pin in his first round match over Edgar Feliciano in a time of 3:31, and later earned a pin in a time of 1:12 over Devin DeLuca of Shawsheen.

"Shane did a great job," McKenna said. "And he's been battling an illness too, so he is still really kind of trying to catch up health wise and everything, so for him to get out there and perform the way he did today, was definitely a good day for him.

"Jacob was in a very, very tough weight class. He lost to a state place finisher from Dedham. He was actually beating him, but he made a little error in the third period and that came back to haunt him."

Senior Ryan Martin went 1-2 on the day, winning his first round match over Mike Maher of Melrose in a time of 2:44.

Overall, McKenna was very happy with his team's performance on the day.

"We did better than we have the first two times out and that's all we're asking for right now," McKenna said. "Every kid who stepped on the mat for us today showed improvement from last week into this week, so we are happy with that. And some of our younger kids got some varsity experience in a tournament like this, which will help them. It can be really, really tough, but they showed something."

One of the wrestlers who impressed McKenna the most on the day was sophomore Marcello Misuraca, who despite going 0-2 on the day, wrestled very well at 170 pounds, losing his second match of the day by a nar-

Relay team emerges to give Wildcats the victory

By JAMIE POTE

BOSTON - Several years ago, the Wilmington Girls Indoor Track team had its undefeated season and first ever league championship title come down to the final event of the back-and-forth thrilling meet against Burlington.

Last Thursday, in the team's season opening league meet, the two teams had yet another thrilling back-and-forth meet come down to the 4x400 relay with the Wildcats winning that race and winning the meet, 51-49.

"I said at the beginning of the season that this meet was our big meet and the girls stepped up to the challenge," said head coach Brian Schell. "It has been a tough start to the season in training due to weather on top of an already strong Burlington team. We knew it was going to be a close one and could possibly come down to the relays and it did."

In this meet, it proved that track teams need an entire line-up to come through as the Wildcats had just five first place finishes, but also had 7 second place finishes and 5 third places, accounting for 26 of the team's points, one more than the five first places.

"We have had some unfortunate injuries and illnesses and we needed everyone to bring their best and they did that and then some," said Schell. "It is what made this win that much bigger for us as it took a full team effort and everyone battled through their events. We even had three races decided by less than a second in the mile, 600m and the two-mile."

Trailing 49-46 going to the final event, Wilmington's 4x400 relay team of Angie Zaykovskaya, Katie McLaughlin, Maggie Bourgeois and Amanda Broussard finished at 4:26.88 to seal the deal for the team victory.

The other first places came from Kaitlyn Doherty in the 55-meter hurdles at 10.02 seconds, Hannah LaVita in the high jump clearing 5-2, Shannon Murphy in the shot put throwing 28-6 and then the 4x200 relay team of Madi Mulas, Ashlyn Buckley, Aaliyah Abel and Doherty with a time of 1:54.05.

Leading the way with second places included Juliana Patrone in the high jump as she cleared 5-0 and Amanda Broussard, who was clocked at 43.93 in the 300.

"Hannah LaVita and Juliana Patrone both qualified for the state meet and they both had a great day matching their best heights," said Schell. "Definitely a great start of the season for them these last two meets and hopefully we can keep the consistency.

"Amanda had a great day overall doubling up as the anchor leg in the 4x400 as well. She had a great start for herself in the race and was even able to fend off their second girl after getting out quick. In the relay, she managed to have a solid last 100-meters finish of the race and a great split of 61.9."

The other second places came from Bourgeois in the 600 at 1:53.88 and McLaughlin in the long jump (14-11.50), while Amber Flynn and Gianna Misuraca had busy and productive days. Flynn was second in the mile at 5:58.30 and third in the shot put throwing 27-2 and Misuraca was second in the two-mile at 13:17.43 and third in the mile at 6:10.47.

"Both girls had a tough double in the distance events and you could tell it set in come the two-mile," said Schell.

"Amber had a great race in the mile for herself but got caught in a bad position one the last lap and was not able to out kick their girl. The officials also rushed her throws in shot put immediately after she ran the mile. Gianna had a great two-mile battling back and forth the last three laps and pulled away with 100-meters to go, but their girl just managed to sprint and get her at the lean with a lean."

Rounding out the place finishers included third places from Mulas in the 55-meter dash (8.02), Olivia Erler in the two-mile (13:33.72) and Doherty in the long jump (14-0.50).

"Overall, a great way to start the season and gets us one step closer to our goal of a winning record," said Schell.

Turning to the boys team, their meet also came down to the final event, the 4x400 relay and the team of Jake Danieli, Brian Elderder, Aiden McGrath and Sean Riley finished first at 3:39.13, giving Wilmington five points as the two teams ended in a deadlock tie of 50-50.

Wilmington's 4x200 relay team of Isaac Avila, Richie Stuart, Joe DeMoura and Matt Chisholm also finished first with a combined time of 1:38.28.

Other first places came from Jeandre Abel in the 55-meter dash (6.94), Elderder in the 600 (1:27.95) and Riley in the 1,000 (2:45.72). Abel was also second in the 300 at 38.47, Danieli was also second in the 600 at 1:28.33, while also grabbing three points each included Owen Surrette in the mile (4:52.11), Greg Adamek in the two-mile (10:49.38), while Sam Juergens had a real busy day finishing second in the high jump clearing 5-4, and third in both the 55-meter hurdles at 9.10 and the long jump clearing 17-7.25.

The other third places came from Chisholm in the 55-meter dash (7.25), McGrath in the 300 (38.71), Nolan Kennedy in the mile (4:52.94) and Alex Boehm in the two-mile at 10:52.25.

row 10-7 margin.

"This was his first varsity tournament, and he went down to the wire in a couple of his matches, and that is a huge ask for a kid who is doing this for the first time," McKenna said.

Going forward, McKenna is hoping to use the team's experience on Saturday as a springboard to more success though the rest of the season.

"Everybody is buying in to what we are doing. The kids are listening and they are not afraid to try things if they are new wrestlers, so we are in a good spot with that right now," McKenna said. "We are taking the long view and the kids are just going to get better."

In addition to preparing for their matches, McKenna and the Wildcats also served as host for the Sons of Italy Tournament, making for a very busy weekend of setting up and breaking down at Shriner's Auditorium for a group of athletes that were getting ready for a major tournament.

After the event, McKenna was very thankful to his wrestlers for all of their hard work in preparing for the tournament, and he also wanted to thank two other groups who make the tournament possible every year.

"It was a fantastic tournament. We have a lot of alumni that come to help out and the staff here at the Shriner's Auditorium are second to none," McKenna said. "We are able to come in from Friday through Sunday or even Monday if we need to and they are just fantastic hosts.

"And the Sons of Italy have been fantastic in making sure we have everything we need to run this, so I have to thank those two organizations for making it another great tournament."

Swim teams split in league meet vs Triton

By HENRY PELMAS
Sports Correspondent

The North Reading Wilmington co-op swim team finished their second meet of the season, with the girls team winning 88-82, and the boys team losing a close meet with a final score of 68-67 to Triton Regional on Friday.

The girls team continued their strong season beginning from last week, as the team's second individual swimmer qualified for the North Sectionals meet, as Kristina Valenti swam a 59.42 in the 100 yard free-style.

Three of the girls relay teams also qualified for the North Sectionals meet, with the 200-medley relay, who qualified last week, re-qualifying, with Wilmington freshman Maddie Koenig, Kelly Crossan, Nicole Steinmeyer, and Brianna Saunders-Correa. This is the same relay team that had originally qualified, except for Kelly Crossan, who took the place of Melanie Feffer for the breaststroke leg of the race. The team finished with a time of 2:11.14.

The girls 200-yard freestyle relay team also qualified for the North Sectionals meet, again a repeat qualifier from the first meet. The team, consisting of Oli Grabar, Nicole Steinmeyer, who took Brianna Saunders-Correa's spot from last week, Melanie Feffer, and Kristina Valenti, with a ent, during the season and at season's end she was selected as the GNAC Rookie of the Year as well as being named to the All-GNAC first team after helping Johnson & Wales to a 13-2 overall record and a perfect 7-0 mark within the league.

Hill continued her outstanding play from high school, and in fact improved on it with an 11-2 overall singles record, including a 6-2 mark against conference foes while playing at number two singles as just a freshman. Additionally, she paired with sophomore teammate Kourtney Moore to compile a 12-1 mark in second doubles and 7-1 in GNAC play.

Kitterick obviously expected big things out of Hill when he recruited her, but even he was surprised by how quickly she took to the college game.

"Emily doesn't blow you away athletically, but her control of her racquet and her ability to manipulate the ball are just incredible," Kitterick said. "Her hand skills are just amazing and that's what makes her such a great player. The competition level didn't faze her at all. Honestly, I expected this out of her down the line but not this year. I knew she would be very good, but she has exceeded all expectations."

In addition to her individual success, Hill helped lead the Wildcats (yes, JWU is also the Wildcats) to the finals of the GNAC Tournament before they were finally defeated by Eastern Nazarene College in a 5-4 thriller.

Like any player Hill had some doubts heading into her first season of college play, but thanks to a great group of teammates, she was able to quickly adjust. "At first I was really surprised that I was placed at number two singles, and it was a little scary at first," Hill said. "But I was able to get into the flow of things because everyone on the team was so supportive, I was able to fit right in. Going to the GNAC's and getting to the finals was just amazing."

As for the transition to the tougher competition at the college level, Hill felt like she was able to make the transition at least partially due to the tough competition she faced the previous four years in the Middlesex League.

"The competition was sort of the same as what I was facing in the Middlesex League," Hill said. "I think if you are going to the college level after not facing that type of competition in high school it could have been a lot tougher, but for me it felt like almost a continuation of high school."

As great as Hill and the Wildcats were this past season, even better days may lie ahead. Under Kitterick's direction, JWU has advanced to the GNAC finals for the past five years and won two titles. With a young and talented squad returning next season, Kitterick will be looking for another trip to the finals.

"We should be very good going forward, and Emily will be a big part of that," Kitterick said.

Hill is very excited to see what the next three years of her career bring for her and her Wildcats teammates. And she also hasn't forgotten what it is like to be a team leader and captain like was at Wilmington High. She is hoping to bring that same type of care for her teammates to the college level.

"I am definitely excited for it," Hill said. "We have a lot of good recruits coming in and a lot of good players coming back. With the new players, I just want to make them feel at home like everyone did for me. College is such a tough transition as it is, I want them to know they have someone they can rely on."

A STRONG SUPPORTING CAST

Speaking of people to rely on, Hill has relied on many coaches for guidance over the years, but perhaps none more so than Hackett and now Kitterick. As effusive as the two coaches were in their praise of Hill, she spoke just as highly of them.

"Coach Hackett has been a great role model for me," Hill said. "Every time I come off the court he was always so positive no matter how hard I was on myself. He also does such a great job of promoting tennis in town. He is always there for his players both on and off the court. He couldn't be a better role model.

"I have a very good relationship with coach Kitterick. He has taught me a lot, but he is more like a brother or a friend than just a tennis coach. He and our assistant coach, Kerry Zeida have just been such great coaches for me. They made the transition to college so much easier and they are great to play for."

If Hackett, Kitterick and others have supported her as coaches, there have been no bigger supporters than Emily's parents Sandra and Rodman, who have helped make her tennis career what it is today.

"They are always encouraging me and are always there for me if I need anything," Hill said. "Whether it was a ride or a new racquet or more lessons or anything, they were always ready to provide for me. I couldn't ask for better parents. They are so supportive and loving and I am very grateful for them."

Rams finish fourth at SOI Tournament led by seven place finishers

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

WILMINGTON - As seems to be the case every year, Saturday afternoon at the Shriner's Auditorium was another successful Wilmington Sons of Italy Tournament for the Shawsheen Tech Wrestling team.

While they were unable to take home the team championship as they did last season as well as in 2016, the Rams once again made their presence felt among the best teams in the state of Massachusetts with a fourth place finish in the field of 20 teams.

With a team that is a little less experienced those squads that took home titles two of the past three years, Shawsheen coach Mark Donovan was more than happy with his team's performance on Saturday as well on with the dual meet season they are having thus far.

"We are 6-0 as a team and we have some young guys that are just now getting into the system, so I am pretty happy with where we are and with a third place finish here," Donovan said. "The end of the year is where it really counts, so we can use this as a stepping stone toward that."

The Rams did not have any champions this season, but they did have seven wrestlers finish in the top four of their weight classes, with three of them advancing to finals.

Junior Aidan Leffler of Tewksbury earned a trip to the finals at 182 pounds with wins by pin over Jancarlo Figuero of Haverhill in 4:14 and then Ryan Day of Tewksbury in 1:25. His finals match against Owen Buffagna was a classic. The match stood tied at 3-3 heading into the third period, and the third the lead changed hands several times with both wrestlers scoring critical points before Buffagna finally pulled away for the win.

"He's a stud," Donovan said of Leffler. "He has only been wrestling for a year and a half. He is just a tough kid. He is a hard nosed kid and he works hard in the room every day."

Senior Andre Comeau earned his spot in the finals at 195 pounds with a pair of wins by pin in the quarterfinals and semifinals before losing in sudden death to Jack Carbone of North Andover in the finals by a score of 8-6.

"He went out and had a great day," Donovan said. "I mean, he lost in overtime in the finals, so he did very well, and he had a chance to win it. The tough thing for him right now is to maintain his weight. He went right from golf season to wrestling so it is kind of tough, but he is working hard at it."

Junior Austin Dube also advanced to the finals for the Rams, earning runner up honors at 120 pounds, while several other Rams finished in the top four.

Among those top four finishers were a pair of local wrestlers.

Sophomore Joe D'Ampolo of Tewksbury had a big day for the Rams, as did junior Diondre Turner of Wilmington, with D'Ampolo earning a third place finish at 106 pounds and Turner taking a fourth place finish at 145.

D'Ampolo stated his day with a win by pin over Adam Donovan of Tewksbury in 1:05, followed by a loss to Derek Torres of Brookline by a score of 9-6 in the quarterfinals, moving him to the consolation bracket. Once there, D'Ampolo couldn't be stopped, pinning Nyobe Bandle of Winchester in a time of 2:44 in the consolation semis and then earning an 8-2 decision over Sebastian Boisvert in the third place match.

Turner meanwhile, won his first two matches of the day, winning a narrow 8-6 decision over Cam Cimmino of Tewksbury and then a 4-3 decision over Ethan Calderwood of Haverhill in the quarterfinals.

After a loss in the semifinals, Turner moved to the consolation bracket where he once again defeated Cimmino, this time in 38 seconds, before losing a tough match in the third place match by a score of 6-5 to Nat Vachon of Lawrence when Vachon picked up two points in the closing seconds of the match.

Other place finishers for the Rams included Frank Foti with a third place finish at 126 pounds and Justin Merrifield in third place at 138.

Several other Shawsheen wrestlers also won at least one match on the day, with Devin DeLucia taking home two wins at 132 pounds, while Jason Elias earned a win at 152 pounds as did Lucas Moreira of Tewksbury at 220 pounds and Robert O'Hearn of Tewksbury at

Donovan is looking forward to seeing what his young and talented team can do in the weeks and months ahead.

"We feel good about the rest of the season," Donovan said. "We are only going to move forward and keep getting better."

The Rams will be back in action this Friday and Saturday when they compete in the Lowell Holiday Tournament at the Tsongas Center in Lowell.
